Death & Devil Tarot cards

What do they mean when pulled together in a reading?

Death card

Please don't be afraid of this card, it doesn't mean a physical death instead it means a significant transformation to a person's life; the end of one chapter & the beginning of a new one.

If this card appears in a reading, it is advising you that it is time to let go of the old and embrace the new. See this card as a wakeup call to make necessary changes in your life that will bring in a new chapter.

Devil card

This card represents temptation, addiction, co-dependent relationships or person & negative patterns that may be holding you back.

When this card appears in a reading, you are stuck in a negative pattern or feel trapped in a negative or toxic situation; whether this is with someone or a situation of your own making, but it is important to remember that you have the strength to overcome this situation.

In summary

These two Major Arcana cards together are a very powerful combination; the presence of these two cards suggests a significant transformation is necessary to break free from an unhealthy situation or negative pattern, addiction or a co-dependent relationship.

The Death card warns that a situation will require significant change or even drastic action to create a fresh start. The Devil card indicates that this change may be difficult & requires the person to confront their fears & face what is holding them back.

So in combination these cards are a call to take action; the person must let go of old habits in order to embrace change & move forward in life. A period of shadow work may be required in order to heal ones fears & trauma.
